Judges

The Court orders that the motion for immediate consideration is GRANTED.

The Court further orders that the motion for additional time to conduct an evidentiary hearing on remand is GRANTED TO THE EXTENT that the remand period is extended if the trial court finds that expert testimony is required. If the trial court decides that expert testimony is required, the 56 days allowed by the Court's remand order of January 12, 2009, is increased to 77 days as requested. However, the trial court is not precluded from deciding that the issues raised on remand may be decided without the need for expert testimony.
